

Art supplies shipped - 2023:

Art for Aid reaches out regularly to collect new and gently used art supplies to engage the general public in learning about the importance of access to quality art learning tools for Indigenous youth in remote community schools. Through this outreach, people learn about these communities, the needs and why art is important to the mental health and well-being of youth. We ship primarily through Canada Post. This method of shipping is reliable and ensures the supplies reach these communities in a timely manner. We are always working to establish new programs that help schools gain access to opportunities for youth through art.

“Kidz On The Land” – Land Based Learning Support shipped – 2023

In 2022 Art for Aid began offering support for land based learning programs after learning about the popularity of these classes. Schools and students benefit greatly from programs that connect them to the language and the land, but winter resources are sometimes in short supply. We ship waterproof quality winter boots, fishing gear, lure kits, outdoor wear and other items as our budget allows.
